RESIDENTS OF CALIFORNIA ONLY

The California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA) is a right afforded to only residents of the State of California.

California defines residency as (1) every individual who is in the State for other than a temporary or transitory purpose, and (2) every individual who is domiciled in the State who is outside the State for a temporary or transitory purpose. All other individuals are nonresidents. Examples of domicile include paying taxable income, maintaining a permanent home, paying resident tuition, voting in a California election, or any other benefit not ordinarily extended to non-residents.

Note that as part of servicing consumer requests and customer accounts, MFCU may collect certain categories of information as noted in the "California Consumer Privacy Act Privacy Notice"; however, not all categories of information are likely to be collected from or about each individual consumer. The specific categories of information collected are dependent on the MFCU service(s) provided.

Due to other Federal and State laws, MFCU may not be able to fulfill deletion of personal information because such information is needed to provide your product or service and/or meet legal requirements.

California residents will be allowed to correct inaccurate personal information that we may have on them and limit the use and disclosure of sensitive personal information collected about them.
